

End View of a Hollow Carbon Nanotube

All single-wall carbon nanotubes exhibit beautiful helical symmetries. The tube has a three-fold rotational axis and can be thought of as formed from three interlocking identical helices colored red, white, and blue.